An Acceptable Ransom

Mike King

An article was written by Alan Smith of the Helen Street Church of Christ in Fayetteville, NC. The title of his article was “The Highest Ransom Ever Paid.” In it, he related an interesting story.

“A few years ago there was a true story about a man in New York City who was kidnapped. His kidnappers called his wife and asked for $100,000 ransom. She talked them down to $30,000.

The story had a happy ending: the man returned home unharmed, the money was recovered, and the kidnappers were caught and sent to jail. But don’t you wonder what happened when the man got home and found that his wife got him back for a discount?

Calvin Trillian was the writer of this story. He imagined what the negotiations must have been like: ‘$100,000 for that old guy? You have got to be crazy! Just look at him! Look at that gut! You want a $100,000 for that? You’ve got to be kidding. Give me a break here. $30,000 is my top offer.’

I can sympathize with the kidnapper man because I wonder how much the people of my life think that I’m worth. But I am flattered beyond description to realize that I was worth enough to God that He was willing to pay the ultimate price for my ransom, my redemption.”

Peter put it into perspective by saying, “Knowing that you were not redeemed (ransomed) with corruptible things like silver or gold, from your aimless conduct received by tradition from your fathers, but with the precious blood of Christ, as of a lamb without blemish and without spot”(I Pet. 1:18-19).

The truth of the matter is that the value of something is determined by the amount that someone is willing to pay for it. Whether a work of art or a collectible automobile, some would pay much, others would pay little, depending upon the assessed value placed on it by the purchaser.

God did not quibble about the price that had to be paid to redeem us from Satan’s grasp, but paid the full ransom amount. This amounted to more than the price that had ever been paid for an individual. We should be flattered and complimented that God would so distinguish us by making us His #1 priority. It only makes sense that we should respond reciprocally by giving Him glory and honor by the life we live for Him.

Hold that Cow's Tail!

My mother grew up as the youngest on a small farm in middle Tennessee. They had chickens and cows, as well as other barnyard critters. When she was four or five years old, my grandmother would take her along to do the morning chores. There was always something for a little girl to do. She gathered eggs in places only a little person could reach. And while Granny was milking the cow, Granny told her, "Hold that cow's tail!" My mother would gently hold the cow's tail so it didn't get swished into Granny's face and interrupt her pace in that important work.

It all sounds humorous now, but there were some valuable lessons to be learned. First, everyone, big or small, has a job to do. Second, every job small or big is important. Third, everyone is valued and needed. These concepts are especially true in the church of the Lord.

The church at Corinth did not understand these basic principles. Some of the Corinthian brethren thought they must have visible, "showy" positions of service. Others functioned in somewhat menial positions and thought their work was not as valuable.

The apostle Paul corrected these mistaken views when he said, "For the body does not consist of one member but many. If the foot should say, Because I am not a hand, I do not belong to the body, that would not make it any less a part of the body. And if the ear should say, Because I am not an eye, I do not belong to the body, that would not make it any less a part of the body. If the whole body were an eye, where would be the sense of smell?" (1 Cor. 12:14-17).

The person who cleans the building or prepares the Lord's Supper is just as needful as the person who publicly preaches, teaches, or leads prayers. Paul made it abundantly clear that everyone, big or small, has a job to do in the well-functioning church, the body of Christ. Every job, small or big, is equally important. Every member is valued and needed. Our aim, then, is to find a role, a work, a service that honors our Lord, and seek out those who are young or young in the faith and urge them to "Hold that cow's tail!"

"And whatever you do, in word or deed, do everything in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God the Father through him." (Col. 3:17)

YOUTH NEWS

During this past Marvelous Monday (which was a slip' n' slide), I began to think about water and its importance in our lives. About 60% of the human body is made up of water, and without consuming it we would not be able to function. Drinking water provides us with the ability to operate daily activities and even cures most of our common ailments.

Jesus said in John 4:13-14 that, "Everyone who drinks of this water shall thirst again; but whoever drinks of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst; but the water that I shall give him shall become in him a well of water springing up to eternal life." We all get thirsty each day as a sign that we need more water because its benefits to us are temporary. However, if we have embraced the gospel message and are baptized into Christ, the benefits of His "spirit" and "grace" are both bountiful and never-ending.

IT IS HARD

... To convince your children that the church is the most important thing in the world when you are negligent about attending its services and supporting its work.

... To convince your children that the church is the greatest institution in the world when you permit them to miss services to go elsewhere.

... To convince your children that the church is to be held higher than anything when you insist that they do their homework for public school but permit them to neglect their Bible study.

... To convince your children that the church is the world's most important institution when you give little to help finance its work and encourage them to do likewise.

... To convince your children that they should respect the church when you continually criticize the leadership, belittle the teacher's work and appear a habitual faultfinder.

Author Unknown

“And thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might. And these words, which I command thee this day, shall be in thine heart. And thou shalt teach them diligently unto thy children, and shalt talk of them when thou sittest in thine house, and when thou walkest by the way, and when thou liest down, and when thou risest up.” Deuteronomy 5:5-7
